CRIME RECONSTRUCTION

Crime Reconstruction is the determination of the actions and events surrounding the commission of a crime. It is accomplished by the scientific examination and interpretation of all physical evidence and related testing. These results are then compared to the statements of witnesses, living victims, and suspects.

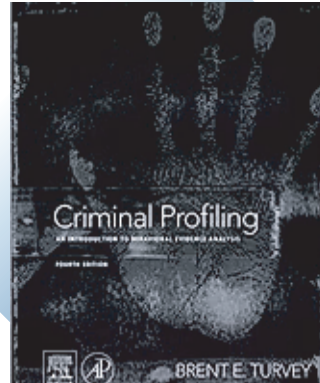

CRIME SCENE ANALYSIS

A CSA is a comprehensive investigative and forensic report that examines and interprets the behavioral evidence associated with a particular crime, or a series of related crimes. It includes a Crime Reconstruction section, a Forensic Victimology section, and a Crime Scene Characteristics section to assess modus operandi, signature, and motive related behaviors.

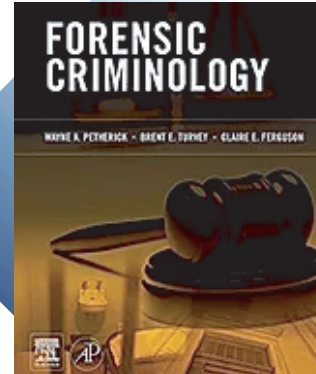

CRIMINAL PROFILING

This is an investigative tool that infers offender characteristics from the analysis of criminal behavior. It is based on the examinations completed during a CSA. It is useful for focusing in on offender motivation, understanding victim selection, and narrowing the suspect pool to allocate resources more effectively.

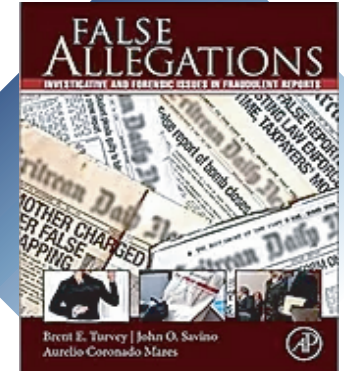

CASE LINKAGE

Case linkage, or linkage analysis, is the process of determining whether there are reliable connections between two or more previously unrelated cases, generally using the results of crime scene analysis. In accordance with legal rulings, this is accomplished through a careful examination of offender modus operandi and signature behavior, and expressed with established levels of certainty.

PREMISES LIABILITY

Premises liability is the civil responsibility incurred by property owners who fail to provide reasonable and adequate security to their tenants, lessees, customers, and other invited patrons or guests while on their property. This liability can include harm caused by third parties engaged in the commission of criminal acts, such as theft, robbery, sexual assault, kidnapping, and murder.

FALSE ALLEGATIONS & STAGED CRIME SCENES

A false report (or false allegation) refers to any untruthful statement, accusation, or complaint to authorities asserting that a crime did or will occur. This requires crime reconstruction, discerning evidentiary inconsistencies, and the consideration of established red flags.
